Thread: Your Business is My Business LLC - Let's Make Your Business Official

Oxycodone - July 13, 2026, 4:36 am

Before I begin this thread, please read this.

The following thread is formatted, and such with the help of AI.

This business, is not AI. You won't be paying me, to go use AI for everything.

I've owned my LLC prior to the AI Boom.

My LLC Is not this business. I'm not here to sell you on a lie that I've done this line of work specifically my entire life.

No.

The simple truth is this.

I do my research, I'm interested in this line of work, I don't mind doing the paperwork.

I've asked the same million questions any new business owner has had, I've also asked a million more after I thought I found the answers.

What I'm selling here, isn't even a product. If you read, I'm giving away free. What others charge for hourly.

Free Consultation.

That's right, when I say, I won't start your business until you understand what you're paying for, what your legal responsibilities are as a business owner, and everything needed to make sure you're confident in not only starting a business officially, but educated without the headache.

Even if you don't use my service as a paid one, and just use it for consultation to better understand anything you

I'm not as diverse and knowledgeable in every state and there laws, or in every permit there is to know about per county/state regulations. That doesn't mean when I tell you something, it's because I didn't do my research. I will help you in more ways than this thread will even begin you begin to understand.

There truly no risk to talk to me and pick my brain. see what you think.

I've help a few businesses. get started, I've also help business owners that had businesses for 20+ years, get caught up to date with permits, insurance, and other requirements that they stopped caring about when covid happened, and just never resumed and let things fall behind.

HackForums may be a odd place to post this, but I see there so much legitimate operations on here, real hustlers, and there are a lot who are missing the benefits of what operating under a dBa,LLC (S Corp, C Corp, Single-Memeber etc..), can do for you.

You may not realize it, but if done correctly, It's probably one of the smartest decisions you could ever make, depending on the line of work.

It might sound complicated to you, but thats not what you're here for. You're here so I can make your life easy, not the other way around.

The fancy text formatting and perfect spelling and grammar in this thread after this post, isn't to convince you to use me. It's simply structure, clarity, and easy to read. Don't confuse it for anything else. My research is done through state and government resources. I don't believe everything I read the first time, I fact check everything. If we are in conversation, I'm giving you my best understanding, and my time and my word I'm not here to overcharge or waste your time.

If you started a LLC with Legalzoom, or ANYONE else.

Talk to me, like I said it's free.

I'll prove to you, I'll educate, and make you more informed about every thing that any other paid service still wouldn't bother taking there time to tell you.

I'm here for Good Business, and more importantly I'm here for Your Business to succeed, because I hope that I become apart of helping every business grow.

I do more then just LLC formation.

I'll set you up with any service you need along the way. Set up appointments, help with permitting and licensing. I'll talk to the CPA's, Tex Professionals before you ever need to. To ensure you're not wasting your time waiting all day to find out, they're not the ones you want to work with.

I do it all.

With that said, if you wanted any services not clearly listed, just ask. Don't hesitate.

Again, this is a partially free service 100% . Paid customers will have priority for obvious reasons.

I don't expect to get a lot of views, responses on this thread.

I have my own business in real life, and other revenues of income. This is something else to add a little more to my schedule as I can currently handle the workload. I got time to help. If I somehow get to many people at once, I'll most likely close this thread and reopen when it clears up. Unlikely this thread will get the much attention, but if it does, I'll make it clear when I can't take on new clients due to the constraints during that time.

Thank you for reading, here we begin.
