Thread: I'm Honestly Disappointed.

How come all the pretty women get taken so fast? Who the fuck is snatching up all the pretty girls? I'm so disappointed. Whenever I walk up to a group of girls, I get rejected without even saying a word. They just say, "Sorry, we're taken," and somehow we end up becoming best friends. I can become friends with pretty girls, but I can never find love. What is God planning for me? What is this?

Sounds like "you're not my type" first impression. It's not that they are taken, and this also doesn't have to discourage you. Focus on yourself, go to gym, work, the rest should come at some point, don't force it because you shouldnt be looking at how pretty a girl is when it comes to dating but how much you can connect with the person in front of you.

You need to quicken yourself up using oil on your whole body. That will give you the edge when sliding up to the single chicks before everyone else.

I was joking. But the fact remains, if you're not first on the ball you have to play second fiddle.
