Has Crypto Finally Become Boring?

Back in 2017 and 2021, crypto felt like the Wild West.

Every day there was a new project, a new narrative, or a new opportunity.

Today it feels... different.

The industry seems more mature, regulations are increasing, and institutions are entering the space.

Some people say that's a good thing.

Others think crypto has lost the excitement that made it special.

Do you think the best days are still ahead?

Or has crypto become just another financial market?

I'd love to hear opinions from people who've been around for multiple cycles.

When has investment ever been fun? Boring is good. If you're looking for fun, casinos are an option.

Why its not viewed as fun? and why boring is fun? Is the demon a good guy and the angel is the bad guy in your story? Casino shouldnt have existed just like nightclubs and shit tons of other useless stuff so no, it do not view them fun at all.

its a currency, not a king. as far as I know, crypto has contributed in facilitating crimes online. Epstein gang, and we the internet people most likely heard or seen redrooms type shit, stores where they sell all type of harmful materials. So is it still king to your eyes? or shall we call it king satan?

Crypto is still a Wild West. You can literally disappear in the sunset if you ever need to. DEX and XMR is all you need.

You mean DEX and XMR help in survival, how?

Do we need electricity? do we need internet? can we craft or buy tools using DEX and XMR to get water and food? Are there sellers who accept XMR AND DEX currencies who does not sell harmful materials?

Useless thing and since we were stupid we though WOW, my pfp is gonna be my pfp forever now. I won it wow.

Contributed in the rich to get even more richer, and the poor to be more poorer. Made us think we own something, while the elites owned our brains and the lands with the money generated.

Crypto is exiting its' first love stage, and into the long term relationship phase.

People will bow out, some will dip in, it's been railed by all the people it needs to get ploughed by in college and it's ready to settle down into a more stable market.

You will have volatility, as with any relationship, but with regulation it's manageable.

You are experiencing post-hype. Synonymous with post partum depression.

Not as boring IMHO as the internet has become.

I swear if I didn't own HF, I don't think I'd use the internet at all.

Crypto is getting just as boring. Blackrock is pushing for the Clarity Act. You cant get more establishment than that.

I'm holding firm in my belief that Monero has a future as the only true privacy crypto that matters.

What's fun about it? The volatility? I understand crypto is not moving as it used to, but if you're a serious investor, you have to adapt to market changes.

Yes , it's ass . People have woken up and realized it is NOT the future , just a ponzi lol
