Thread: With the Current Market, Are Meme Coins Still Worth Buying?

Yanix - July 31, 2026, 4:10 am

I've noticed that meme coins don't get talked about as much as they used to and the market has changed quite a bit. Some people still believe there's money to be made, while others think the hype is over.

Do you still buy meme coins, or have you moved on to other projects? If you're still investing in them, which ones do you think are worth watching?

I'm just curious to see what everyone thinks with how the market is looking right now.

seems like you havent looked at the market recently. there were a few major coins recently, that sparked a major revival on the market.

you can ping me anytime. tool itself looks good, i'm just asking myself what sets it apart from 49370 other tools.

the token itself, idk. i'd drop 5-10$ and see what it would do over time. for meme's i usually just day-trade. anywhere from 2 mins to 2-3 hours max.

Oh yeah my bro, you've mentioned that before. I actually like your approach. Meme coins move so fast that getting in and out within minutes or a few hours seems like a smart and disciplined way to trade them.?

I have mostly stayed away from the meme coin market. I think the couple hundred I might have spent all went to zero.

It's a garbage scammy ponzi market.

I don't think meme coins are worth buying at any time tbh.

Yanix - August 1, 2026, 12:33 am

Maybe now is the time to officially avoid investing in meme coins.

The hype isn't worth watching at all. Time to focus on real value instead of gambling.

Have memecoins ever been worth buying? Never has been sustainable in the long run.

Just because you have zero use for BTC doesn't mean it has zero use.

Crypto ultra important to internet and financial freedom.

With crypto we no longer need 3rd party services to transfer funds between two parties. Receivers of funds cannot be scammed of payment with reversals or stolen accounts.

Problems are absolutely solved with Crypto.

Monero imho solves the most problems in crypto with its privacy.

Cashapp and Venmo closed my account. So did Paypal and even Coinbase. So did many others.

Without Crypto, I'd have closed HF from lack if income years ago.

Interesting they closed your account. Was it due to chargebacks? Cashapp banned me because someone used a fraudulent card to pay me.
