Thread: I'm Back To Playing OSRS. Any Of You Still Playing Too?

DemonAsylum - July 31, 2026, 10:40 pm

I recently started to play OSRS (Old School RuneScape) again after yet another break, something I think many of us OSRS players have done multiple times lol. You never truly quit OSRS after all, right? Anyway, who all on here is still playing these days and what are you working on? Feel free to share your RSN as well if you don't mind fellow HF members adding you.

When I last went away from the game I was pretty close to 99 attack as well as 99 slayer. I just got 99 attack last night while farming Vorkath to make some money and after a bit more of this I'll be knocking out the 99 slayer while working on getting to 99 defense as well since I'm also at 98 for that. Seems I have a handful of quests to catch up on at some point too from the multiple new pieces of content that have come out during my time away as well as a few that I already had left from before that.

Holy crap well done on the 99s. Haven't played it in years but I want to get back into it when I have my PC again. I can play it on my phone technically but would rather not.

Damn your doing so well I got sick of a normal main so I made an ironman to take over the main, progression wise I'm ahead, gear and level wise I'm behind lol

No you foul demon, and you won't tempt me back into playing it again! I've sworn it off for good this time.

Grats on the attack and slayer work. I couldn't ever get into slayer. Last time I checked on my account I think I was just trying to get all my skills to 50-60 I believe.

My current Ironman account (started in 2023, mostly only play while traveling):

My old main account (haven't touched the acc since 2018):

I enjoy playing the iron a lot more than the main account, but I hardly play at all anymore.

One does not quit nor restart playing RuneScape.

Its something like an evolving spiritual book.

Always there when you're itching for it.

I'm contemplating getting back into it now to do some flipping, don't want osrs to consume my time lol
