Lore: Hackforums Backend Breach

You weren't supposed to make it this far.

One by one, you got past everything the firewalls, the checks, the security layers. Stuff that would've stopped anyone else barely slowed you down.

Now you're here.

The backend.

It's... quiet.

Too quiet.

You pull up the staff page empty.

Not just offline... gone. Every admin that used to run this place is wiped, like they were never even there.

Except one.

People used to think he was just another user with high access.

They were wrong.

He's not managing the system anymore.

He is the system.

The deeper you look, the weirder things get. Code doesn't behave right. Requests don't respond normally. It's like everything is bending around him.

THE OWNER

"You really shouldn't be here."

You're locked in.

No more bypassing.

No more shortcuts.

If you want access to the backend...

You have to beat him.

So yeah... it's your move now.

Do you fight or let him delete everything you've built?
