

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: what is the best

Asus543 - August 9, 2026, 7:06 pm

what is the best training for a blackhat ?

NoF4ce - August 10, 2026, 5:37 am

It depends on what direction you want to take. If you want to be a pentester or want to work in virology, for pentesting I'd recommend downloading Kali Linux because it has all the basic tools. Then I'd advise you to read the forum, watch YouTube, and look into what vulnerabilities exist on websites. To be honest, I only know about SQL injection for virology. I'd advise you to learn programming if you want to write viruses yourself, or to buy them in bytes, or to find them. But overall, I'd recommend testing tools like Ratchet as an admin — after all, on a virtual machine.

bonafide - August 12, 2026, 9:46 pm

There are free online courses available through platforms like Class Central, which offer courses taught by Black Hat experts. Udemy (warez disallowed) also provides a course titled "Mastering Black Hat Techniques: A Guide to Hacking & Cybersecurity," which covers core techniques such as malware creation, phishing, and social engineering. Another option is the "Black Hat Approach to Hacking" course, which teaches the basics of ethical hacking and countermeasures.