You have 1 hour to eat 1,000 of something of your choosing. You win $1,000,000 if you finish. What are you eating?

Could do rice grains?

I don't imagine that many things on the larger side would be able to be had in an hour due to how stomachs work.

Rice is great when you're hungry and want 2000 of something

Depends if you get microwave stuff it usually only takes like 90 seconds, and can go well with a quite a bit.

Pre-shelled sunflower seeds. 1000 seeds are less in mass than the average McDonalds hamburger. I would be done in minutes. Easy money.

Now with the shells on? Im tongue and gums would be disintegrated if I had to crack/spit the shell. And a bowel perforation would likely ensue if I had to consume the shell as well. No thanks.

I could likely do raisins too. roughly 3.5 to 4 cups according to Google. However that would certainly be more challenging.

grains of milled wheat

The Golden Opulence Sundae in New York.

This consists of and blends Tahitian vanilla ice cream, rare dark chocolate, Parisian candied fruits, and sweet dessert caviar, all covered in shiny edible 23k gold leaf, overall.. it's an aquired taste worth $1000

I'd probably have to go with Nerds candy. I'm sure I could eat 1,000 of them and be just fine.

Klaik863 - August 24, 2026, 7:40 am

Something that's definitely no bigger than a grain of rice.

Calories. Obviously.

MayhemHFF - September 1, 2026, 9:22 am

Grains of fine table salt, easy

Ryan Carter - September 2, 2026, 8:59 am

I'd choose 1,000 grains of cooked rice. It might still take a while, but it sounds much easier than trying to eat 1,000 pieces of any regular food!
