Thank you for the warm welcome everyone!

Im wondering if anyone has some good advice or tips for getting the most out of HF?

Like something I should know straight away? Maybe something you wish you knew earlier?

Any advice is welcome!

the greatest advice i can give is just be active in the community, create some posts and spark some interest, you may find the people your looking to network with eventually, i do hope you enjoy your time here, there are many categories and niches to look into, some areas need a little more activity but the old heads are always lurking just gotta spark their interest, love to see growth personally, what brings you here to hackforums?
