For that you need to buy shodan membership subscription and api access, plus a lot of scan/search credits on it.

Google dorks, even working around robots.txt, are going to give you more WP sites than the free Shodan limit.

You go their website and look for pricing. <https://account.shodan.io/billing>

This Python script uses the Shodan API to search for WordPress websites and saves their URLs to a text file for use with other security tools. To use it, install the Shodan Python package, get your Shodan API key, and run the script with your API key as a command-line argument.
