Thread: A Wordpress expert & developer

m1000 - September 15, 2026, 11:58 am

I'm looking for someone very proficient in Wordpress and front end/back end development. I need to install a specific plugin, and eventually have something custom coded onto my site powered by WP. You have to be 100% capable of all three of these things.

It would be really nice if We shared the same timezone (EST)

Your first language is English

You accept Bitcoin, Zelle, CashApp, PayPal or Venmo

Respond here with some of your qualifications and I'll private message accordingly. I'd rather help the local HF economy and hire here than through a place like Fiverr.

Thanks,

m1000

How about your skills with front/backend development? Can you code from scratch?

I have enough money to get going. The going rate on Fiverr for what I'm trying to put together is around $500 so if you can compete with that and have the right skills we can talk.

Hey, I have extensive experience building modern, visually polished WordPress websites without relying on Elementor or similar page builders.

I can work directly with code when needed, giving me more control over the design, performance, and structure. Also focusing on avoiding AI slop looks.

I also have strong experience using WordPress's backend to handle more complex business logic and functionality, keeping data and processes inside WordPress instead of relying on external databases or paid platforms whenever possible. This means I can build everything around the actual needs of the project, while keeping it easy to modify, expand, or reuse later.

Already worked with multiples agencies worldwide as a freelancer.

dm if you need more info.
