Why offshore domains? Can they be shut down if not offshore or something?

If I'm looking for real privacy, I want an exchange on TOR, on an onion link. Now that's true privacy. TOR and XMR.

Please note that most TLD's fall under ICANN. Which means if a Registrar is not accredited then they almost definitely are a reseller. Which is fine but you're paying more for that middle man. You also can get your domain seized by law enforcement through the ICANN legal process.

Still a good list if you want privacy. ViperPrivacy should add which ones are actually ICANN accredited. I ran an AI check, not one of them is. All resellers.

If you want to deal with a resellers, just become one yourself and be your own Registrar with a Tucows (OpenSRS) account. Easy to setup.

Subreg is good they are pretty lenient on abuse reports too just only issue they only take credit card so its not really good for the anonymous aspect.
