Quote: A security breach at Gyazo, Helpfeel's image-sharing service, exposed about 23.62 million user records, including email addresses and password hashes, the Kyoto-based company said in a notice published Wednesday.

It also exposed about 490 million image metadata records, mostly for images from January 2019 or earlier, including the IDs that make up Gyazo image links.

Remember Gyazo being the most dominant image sharing software on HF for a while, heck I even installed it on my new device

How fucked are we gang

As long as you didn't use the same password elsewhere, no problems. I can't remember the last time I used Gyazo.

The same story keeps repeating... people provide personal data, data gets compromised, people sad.

My eyes always read the name as Gayzo (Gay Zoo). ?

Gyazo is all I used. Glad I no longer do now.
