Thread: Are There Any Foods You Used To Enjoy And Now Don't Like? Vice Versa?

Over time what we enjoy eating as well as what we don't enjoy eating can change. Maybe as a kid or a teenager we hate a certain food, but later as an adult we come to end up enjoying it. The same can go for the other way around as well. Does either scenario apply to you for any foods? I wasn't big on fruits when I was younger, but as I've gotten older I have grown to enjoy multiple of them that I specifically remember not caring for back then. For the other way around, I can't think of anything off the top of my head that I really enjoyed, but no longer simply don't care for. There are definitely foods that I don't enjoy as much anymore, but they're not anything that I would mind eating or that I would say I dislike now.

I want to say... hot dogs? They are just so gross to me now.

That's actually a decent shout. I enjoyed hot dogs quite a lot when I was younger and now that you mention it, I realize that I don't care for them much anymore. It's not often that I will have them and if I do, it needs to be a case of them sounding really good to me at the time for whatever reason lol. I'd say maybe at a cookout or if I was going to do one over a fire, but yeah just not common scenarios by any means and even then if I have another option like a burger, that's where I'm leaning 99% of the time.

I used to love "breakfast for dinner" but my mom made that all the time growing up and now I just can't. So pancakes, waffles, breakfast sausage, I just can't do it now.

I had an omelet the other day and I had a tough time getting through it.
