Thread: Shapeless has Disputed a Contract with roker8866 \(5781018 \)

The person has been unavailable for the guidance I have been offering. I have invited him several times to access my dashboard panel and even provided access to a VM with AI connected, so he could independently verify that the service works. I also offered to assist him directly through AnyDesk, but he repeatedly refused, ignored my attempts to help, and instead continued giving me orders.

Furthermore, he leaked server credentials that had been entrusted to him. As a direct consequence, 11 unauthorised systems attempted to access my server environment, which is hosted in a paid OVH infrastructure with an ongoing monthly cost of around $500.

There were also attempts to access, copy, and move data from the databases. Fortunately, the security measures in place detected the activity and prevented larger damage than a days work.

Given these circumstances, I find it completely unreasonable to expect me to continue working with someone after credentials entrusted to them were intentionally leaked, especially when I have repeatedly offered legitimate ways for them to verify and use the service properly.

To his defense, today another customer had problem with VM2 the instance that was him, I thought it was his browser but it was a configuration missmach, but i offered him to help and fix it, he ended up going rampage.

The problem is not me just waiting here, problem is people who sign up to teach think the teacher waits 24/7 and is ready to make them money. that is not the case, and I felt its important he comes here and shows some responsibility, teaching requires someone offering their time to learn.

roker8866 - October 5, 2026, 8:33 am

Shapeless painted a picture of helping me earn hundreds of thousands or even millions of dollars. We agreed on a work schedule of 8:00 AM – 12:00 PM (GMT+7), yet on the very first day, he kept me waiting for four hours. When he finally appeared, he asked me to access an account he provided (an account intended solely for project monitoring). He instructed me to log into "VM2" within that account, but I was unable to do so (I took screenshots and sent them to him, asking him to log in and check himself, as I had tried multiple browsers without success). Instead of logging in to check the account—which he had provided—he repeatedly demanded that I give him AnyDesk access to my computer.

He then became irritable and started ranting...

This was my first time setting up a contract on HF. I had mentioned using an intermediary, but Shapeless told me that the profits would have to be paid to the intermediary—a practice prohibited on HF that would get us banned.

Honestly, his attitude was warm and polite before he received my $100; he painted a vision of earning a lot of money for my family...

But after receiving the $100, he constantly acted angry and lost his temper.

As the buyer of the service, I was very dissatisfied with his way of working. I should have been the one to file a dispute, but because I wanted to learn from his experience, I waited a day or two to see if he would change his approach—yet he was the one who filed a dispute first.

I'd like to ask other members: regarding the contract—which did not involve an intermediary—Shapeless is now turning the situation against me. Can I file a complaint and get my money back? I pledge to provide sufficient evidence—including the chat history with Shapeless—for the forum to review.

If I win the dispute and recover the funds, I will donate 100% of the amount to HF, as I deeply value this forum; it has been a great classroom for me.

After getting paid, however, he became rude; I am posting this as a warning for anyone considering working with Shapeless in the future.

The service most likely appears to be real, however several things stand out:

- 1) Empty upfront promises
- 2) Pressure to sign off on the deal
- 3) Renegotiating contract
- 4) Lack of a middleman/escrow on transaction

Both sides seem to result in an unsatisfactory conclusion, believe it's time to discuss about how/whether to proceed with a refund and close the thread. Quite obviously none of your first languages is English and there's a lot of back-and-forth on Telegram, refrain from accusations and aim for a resolution.

Yes, I mentioned the intermediary to him—as shown in the screenshot—but Shapeless told me that the profits would have to be paid to the intermediary, a practice prohibited on HF that would get us banned.

After learning about RATs, I realized this. I also found it odd that he kept insisting I provide access via AnyDesk; when I refused, he became irritated and annoyed.

I'm confused how would using a middleman get you both banned the argument not to use a middleman makes no sense.

If you can't find a way to work together you should refund op and solve the matter.

I'm also a bit confused about that. If I'm understanding correctly he is saying a MM can't or shouldn't be used because the deal is regarding something blackhat? Either way, what I know for sure is that Omni doesn't mess around when it comes to someone refusing a MM or persuading someone away from using one for any reason. He'll see that shit and close the member without a second thought. Assuming that doesn't happen here, hopefully these guys can get this sorted and come to a resolution that they're both fine with.

After what happened, I don't want to work with him anymore! I want him to issue a refund!

As shown in the attached image, we continued the conversation; I clearly stated that I could not access VM2, yet he kept going on and on with an unpleasant attitude.

He was also the one who initiated the contract dispute.

Based on the attached image, is there sufficient evidence to conclude that Shapeless rejected MM or persuaded me not to use MM? (I cut this section separately from the image attached in my first post)

Eh, it's so so. Yes he does seem to lean away from using a MM, but it also wasn't a case of you straight up asking for one and then him outright refusing. You should have pushed back more on that. In any case, it doesn't make a difference what I think. It comes down to Omni and or Charlie. It seems clear though that either you should be provided what you paid for or get a refund, plain and simple.

As Charlie stated above, the options are to "continue providing the service or issue a refund." Having read the conversation, anyone can form an opinion about him based on his words; in fact, I am unable to access his VM2 either.

I have made up my mind: I no longer wish to use his service and am requesting a 100% refund. We will await the final verdict from Omni and/or Charlie.

OP is a retard. 100 bucks and offering to make you millions of dollars. Dude is a clown. ? If you need MM services check out my profile. I could most certainly escrow this deal. OP is talking out of his ass about not allowing that type of deal to be escrowed.

Not surprised because OP is on my ignore list prior to this thread.

His service has been permanently terminated due to him posting my administrative server credentials publicly across multiple groups. I have spent the entire day securing the environment, replacing credentials, and changing sensitive configurations that are also used by other external parties.

Following the credential leak, 11 unauthorised sessions were created from different IP addresses, and there were multiple attempts to gain broader access to the server. This is an extremely serious security incident.

He has breached our terms and agreement, and this is completely unrelated to whether he was available or AFK. What happened today is the final issue for us, and we will not be continuing to work with him. A deliberate disclosure of private server credentials is an obvious dealbreaker in any professional agreement, regardless of the circumstances surrounding the dispute.

I have also junked/closed the thread because I no longer have any dispute with this person. His service has been fully terminated, so there is no ongoing business relationship from our side. However, you can keep the thread if you consider it necessary.

At this point, I believe it is clear that he no longer has any authority or involvement in the service after publicly posting my server credentials to an entire forum.

The original issue was that I could not provide what he expected because he refused to engage with the actual service being offered. I repeatedly explained that the service was intended to teach and guide him, and I offered practical ways for him to access and verify the system. Instead, he appeared to expect me to simply make him millions through real-world hacking, despite me repeatedly explaining that this was not what I was offering.

Regardless of that disagreement, publicly exposing my server credentials crossed a completely different line. After an incident of this severity, there is simply no basis for continuing the relationship.

(Oct 6, 2026 08:01 AM)Shapeless Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The user now shared admin server credentials to the service he was given, I have terminated his account and service for publicly posting admin credentials to my server, plus ip etc

His service is entirely terminated for posting my admin credentials to my server on multiple groups and ive had to work all day to secure replace and change sensitive things other external people uses (about 27 ips), he broke our terms and agreement and this is unrelated to him being afk, what happened today is final on us we will not be working with him, this is obviously a dealbreaker in any type of agreement regardless of why.

I also junked the thread, t because I have no dispute anymore with this man, the service is entirely terminated, but keep it as you want. I think its obvious he has no say anymore after publicly posting my server credentials to entire forum. There is no call to do that, only reason I could not provide the service is because he does not understand or refuses to work, he thought he will hire me to make him millions in real type hacking, when i keep telling him the service about teaching him he gets angry and says i sayd i would make him millions. The server credentials leak made me just careless about this, i think he has proven himself right there.

Shapeless - October 6, 2026, 7:50 pm

Look I am not refunding him, I have provided him full what I have said I would, he has also hacked and damaged my server infrastructure beyond 100$, there is no way i will refund him, even at the cost of my account, even how unfair that might be knowing I have provided him full service he has just disregarded it.

If i get banned let it be known you protected someone that asked me to HACK for real money and I denied and i provided him exactly what i promised - and you protected someone who leaked my personal data and let damages on my servers, not only that provided you home made screenshots, thats last I have to say on this.

You're forgetting I am the one that have done the dispute of the contract not him lol! You're gonna ban me on my own dispute of contract? And that after he publicly posts personal credentials to public in attempt to get my real servers hacked, i didn't know that kind of thing was allowed and has been logged and might be legally pursued, Amazing!!!

Youre saying I owe him money after what he did, this is illegal and should be arrested for sabotaging something that is not his to try hack, nothing else. This is straight up sabotage and using the forum as a tool to get back at me for he is not happy with my services, how can you condone that??????? He posted my admin credentials without permission publicly with 11 instances logged and saved created by various people to gain access, hack, and i owe him money????

https://www.pasteboard.co/xxtb-f_FR6eg.png

Also I told him he can do middleman but he has to pay for it, theres not once where i denied this, youre claiming his generated posts as lies when in fact he barely wrote a word to me for days and just kept saying i will regret not making him money.

He could have simply came here and explained himself, not post my credentials

Charlie Sheen - October 6, 2026, 10:15 pm

Your entire service you were providing was blackhat. So don't come in here talking about "this is illegal". You also refused using a middleman, which is further grounds for closure. You didn't provide him with any service at all. You forced his hand into sending payment, then you opened this dispute not even 24 hours later saying "he hasn't been online at the same time." Despite the fact that he went as far as you setup a second clock on his phone to try to sync up with you.

Shapeless - October 7, 2026, 1:43 am

Most of what you say is factually wrong wich he has said himself, he claims ONE vm out of 10 was not working in his dashboard, he had full infrastructure just as my post and contract says.

I have proved i provide him service he pasted the credential and got my servers hacked, he did not show any interest for days where I called him here to answer.

I can teach to setup infrastructure without having to hack someone , thats his part i provided tools architecture and gave him exactly what he asked.

My entire post was about infrastructure and teaching, not making millions regardless what his fake logs claim, just read my OP about the service

And i only terminated his account after he posted my admin account publicly

Also he came 3 AM GMT wich is way past midnight ONCE and missed 5 meetings and i kept message him and he could have came here and explained himself ask to keep his service and show interest, not paste my server credentials here.

All is factual, he just expected millions wich he says himself in his posts, something 100$ can not do , atleast not without working yourself.

If messing people stuff and playing the victim and winning while the other part is here for yearsabd have a decent overall ranking get ban well... I wont letany member of my team that wokedd very hard to have a chance to end this way becuase of someone qirgh bad intention andh olsding detail forhis self care and ignoring everyothersi n the way, NEVER!

Like me, you were misled by an account created back in 2013. A long-standing account doesn't mean the person is honest or won't scam you.

The contract started 10/4 at 6:36am

You opened the dispute 10/5 at 6:00am

The pictures show a completely different story of you repeatedly making the contracts and pushing him to pay upfront. Begging him even. He said he wanted to use a middleman. You refused a middleman. You are the one in the messages who stated you guys were going to be rich, you said he was going to be on your team and how you made $200k and in one week you made $50k.

You painted a false picture, got paid then came online not even a full 24 hours later and opened a dispute against him because you said that he was delaying the learning process.

CL1B - October 7, 2026, 7:54 am

Skip the 24 hours, refusing to use middleman is something others got banned for and thus this person should get banned the same way.

No discussion possible.

Shapeless - October 7, 2026, 8:30 am

I never refused doing middleman I just said he has to pay the fee, his logs are fake, he does not know english well and barely said a word.

I sensed when he skipped the first day and started accusing me my rdp is not working when i offered him to connect anydesk and fix it he expected me to hack and expected me to work for him, i was supposed to teach him.

So I came and disputed it right away and said he is not even interested in the main task but he expects money and again I never refused middle man he is making up as he goes, but Im kind of done, if im gonna get banned for offering to teach something and always been ready to do so like i do with so many other students ive done this FOR FREE on a pretty much daily basis, i dont mind, everything has its time,

But the fact that he released my credentials on hackforum servers is not something that will be forgotten, there is documented liability here.

I just see the 100$ he is ready to throw away and burn my account thats the only thing he is doing and its a loss for hackforums people get away with this, when i have done nothing but to abide to what i promised him, not more not less. There was never talk of 200 k or 50k wich is absurd even if i would say that, the idea was for him to teach a pipeline how things get done and everything i said is clearly on the dashboard he claims himself he has received from beginning to end including full working setups, however , he used a rdp that happened to be offline as excuse to refuse to work and demand his money back because he didnt wanna do the work behind it.

The pipeline and dashboard i gave him was delivered in full, however revoked after the dispute when he added the server credentials that eventually can be escalated to root user (this was also logged being attempted from members from this forum)

I am awaiting your final decision to then pursue it legally - i dont think this forum should be used as a place to abuse my rented private server wich has happened in this case. Moderators let the post be for hours while bashing me for providing services to the forum.

It seems youre just upset because you think i try reach into your pocket by denying him the right to a middleman, he is making up stories that i have said im friends with omni, the guy is retarded idk what to say anymore, i have been in this forum since 2013, i would never step on middlemans work in fact i have always encouraged it, but for a 100$ deal i told him he had to pay the price i didnt think ti was deemed necessary at the time, i had no idea things would turn like this, he seemed serious about learning, thats all i will say and leave rest be!

And yes I came and disputed the contract, its my right, his response was to leak my server and cause me monetary damage without adresssing the issues i laid forward.

The admin gave you 24 hours to save your account. If you don't want to stay here, that's your choice—you coward, too afraid to own up to your mistake. I guess $100 is just too huge a sum for you to lose.

You've got ten hours left to survive here, so cry all you can!

Yeah, I want to skip the 24-hour rule and just go for it.

I'm really glad I spent $100 to expose a scammer like you and get us out of here.

I mean please, this forum has a deep history of what is what, look who youre protecting, he is salesbashing while hiding behind mods atm... I have always respected the site rules for 13! years

This plus him releasing publicly credentials for i ask why he dont show up on arranged dates? If this is policy better ban me, its like kindergarden what youre saying.

I realized that all the accounts on HF discussing the keyword "panel access to ShapeOS" were created by him alone!
