

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Canadian Thanksgiving

Respect - October 10, 2026, 9:10 am

Happy Canadian Thanksgiving Weekend to my fellow snow mexicans.

What's your family's typical thanksgiving menu?

We are having:

Perogies
Cabbage Rolls
Ham
Meatballs
Stuffing
Roasted Garlic Potatos
Corn
Caesar Salad
Pumpkin Cheesecake

?ystem - October 10, 2026, 12:48 pm

I'm not Hispanic or Canadian, but with where I live I may as well be considered Canadian.

The typical menu for Thanksgiving for my family includes:

Prime rib, turkey, ham(gravies made from the drippings of each protein), mashed potatoes, Swedish meatballs(and meatballs just by themselves), little smokies in barbeque sauce, various different rolls, stuffing(from scratch, fuck you box), various roasted vegetables like carrots, onions, corn from the garden(s), and various desserts such as lefse, sugar cookies, chocolate chip cookies, apple pie, krumkake, and rhubarb crisp. All of the desserts are made from scratch, with the apples and rhubarb being fresh from the garden(s) and yard. I know there's more I could list but I just can't remember right now.

And yes, you're expected to eat until you enter Odinsleep somewhere on the property.

Edit: I'm slower than molasses in winter. I forgot to wish you a happy Thanksgiving. Happy Thanksgiving!

Deany - October 10, 2026, 12:58 pm

I can't wait for Thanksgiving here. I love it. I'm so fat !

Fish - October 10, 2026, 3:58 pm

Happy Thanksgiving
!

DemonAsylum - October 10, 2026, 4:35 pm

That's a great spread you have planned. I always forget Canada has Thanksgiving a fair bit earlier than the US. For those of you celebrating it, I hope you get to enjoy tons of great food. I shall live vicariously through you all until Thanksgiving comes around for those of us in the US.

