Not really big fan of halloween to be honest.

jcole - October 11, 2026, 2:28 pm

Halloween is just another day for me. Not anything exciting.. Halloween does fall on a Saturday this year though. That is cool.

Wake - October 11, 2026, 2:29 pm

Halloween is one of my favourite holidays, looking forward to the sweets!

I haven't cared much for Halloween in quite a long time. I feel like that happens to a lot of people as they get older though. For anyone that gets really into it though, I hope you thoroughly enjoy it.

Growing up in a religious house hold I wasn't able to celebrate Halloween. Anyone elses family was like this? LOL

Not familiar with that at all honestly. Definitely a bummer though because as a kid, Halloween was one of the best days of the year lol. What kid isn't getting hyped about a ton of free candy?

I probably will not go anywhere for Halloween, but we have not decided what to do yet. Watching a horror movie seems like the easiest option.

I am being lazy this time and reusing my costume from previous year.

I like the vibe of it, decorating outside, and watching scary movies. My kids can't wait to get their costumes and go trick r treating.

Something something something sexy costumes something something something

Not really something we do down here, or at least not with the people I live with, my birthday suit is my sexy costume.

I never truly cared about it after becoming an adult 11 years ago, but it is vibey. I'll just be chilling at home like usual.

I love Halloween, I am too old for it. I want to decorate and give out candy. We did for like 3 years then stopped.

I wasn't making enough money and my parents are on a fixed income. Where we live it's a lot of old people.

So, no one hands out candies there's on like 4 houses. I get depressed seeing it.

We used to give out candy in the 1990s. My dad used to do it while my mom would take me out with my friends.

Then I got older and we did it for like 3 years then stopped. I want to do it because I feel guilty and sad for the kids in this area because it's like horrible not many houses are doing much. I want to save up for it but care issues took a lot of money, then we had a rat inside the house had to buy traps non deadly. I put a budget aside for a new desktops, laptops, and some servers.

So, this year not gonna happen. So, I just hope next year is the year for me.

I love halloween and watching movies and haunted youtube videos even explorations. I just think the unknown is interesting.
