Thread: What TV Show Have You Watched The Most In Your Life?

DemonAsylum - October 11, 2026, 7:23 pm

There are 2 different ways you can look at this question and feel free to answer for either one or both. You can look at it as what TV show you've watched entirely through the most times or you can look at it as what TV show you've generally just spent the most time watching. The show I've watched through the most times is probably either Burn Notice or Prison Break. There are a couple of others that I know are up there, but I'm pretty confident it's one of those 2. As for what show I've spent the most time watching, that is quite a bit tougher to know. I watched a lot of cartoons for instance when I was younger, but I've also watched a good amount of TV as an adult. Plus I've spent a lot of time working or playing something on 1 monitor while simply having a show up on a second monitor, but not like fully watching. So would that still count? If I'm thinking back to when I was younger, I'd say Spongebob probably. If I'm thinking more after I was older and including what I just mentioned for the second monitor situations, probably The Office.

I've watched Supernatural all the way through 4 times. I have watched Breaking Bad twice. Blue Mountain State and The League I have watched probably 5 times. Kingdom I have probably watched the most, at least 10 times.

However there's something to be said about amount of content. As Supernatural was like 16 seasons, and each season is 20+ episodes. Kingdom is 3 seasons and 40 episodes overall.

Man I still need to watch Supernatural. I watched the first few episodes and then for whatever reason I just didn't stick to it. I don't think it was a case of my not enjoying the show either. I remember I went through that with Breaking Bad the first couple of times I tried to watch it and that's not something I forgot lol. So surely if that's what happened with Supernatural, I'd remember. I'll give it another go at some point. Breaking Bad I'm glad I ended up doing that for because even though that first season was slow, after that you're locked the fuck in lol.

It's one of my favorite shows ever. I have been to a few of the conventions and met the entire cast a couple times.

It's one of those shows that I've heard only good things about. I just have to pull the trigger and commit to it is all. Though I imagine it won't take long before I'm in the same boat as I was with Breaking Bad where I'm locked into it and so don't have a second thought about continuing and putting anything else I'd otherwise watch on the back burner.

I will say it is a show that you need to tough out the first so many episodes to get into it, then it keeps getting better and better.

It's good to know that going into it. The first time I watched Breaking Bad, I didn't know it was a similar case and it put me off from trying the show again for a long time. Even the second time around I had only been told it's just the first few episodes that are slow. In reality though if I remember correctly it's closer to most of the 1st season that is slow. So my 3rd go with it ended up doing the trick as I stuck it out until season 2.

For Breaking Bad there was a manager at work I was dating, we had just started dating and I was trying to be interested in things that she was also, so I forced myself to watch it. It was difficult for me as well, but in the end it was top 2 best show I have ever seen.

Well I'm glad I'm not the only one who struggled to get through it lol. I don't believe I've ever had that happen with another show either. Agreed though, it easily became a top show for me as well.

Even though I was super late to Dexter, it's gotta be Dexter. The amount of times I've rewatched it is insane.

Alan Ritchson after he got famous with Reacher said he wanted to bring back Blue Mountain State and everyone was on board but I never heard anything since.

Yin Yang - October 14, 2026, 5:48 am

The office, Seinfeld, that 70's show, scrubs, prison break

Lefty - October 15, 2026, 5:40 am

Probably either family guy or the simpsons. I have dipped out on the latest seasons of both but damn did i watch the hell out of them growing up

Hern - October 15, 2026, 6:09 am

The Office

Shark Tank might be a close 2nd though
