Any life hack counts: cleaning, tech, sleep, work, whatever. Mine is putting your keys somewhere you can't miss on the way out the door. Drop yours below.

After putting my keys IN THE EXACT SAME SPOT every day, I haven't lost them in a long time.

Another life hack I like is if you are ever looking for something you have lost - when you find said item, but it in the first place you looked as thats where it should probably be.

True, putting keys in same spot is the best decision

That life hack stops working when you get married when your wife moves your keys from your exact spot because she doesn't feel it belongs there.

NO! That is the worst!!! How dare she do that! You need to assert your dominance and put em back

Yup... Ok fair. Add an air tag to the keys and problem solved :)

I learned that some battles are not worth fighting for... le when misses does the dishes and theyre still dirty... dont comment, just rewash and pretend you did nothing.

If you have to wake up early, put your clothes and everything out the night before so that if/when you start running around maybe late in the morning to get you out the door then at least you have one less thing to worry about

If you drink hot coffee at home, prepare it before going to the bathroom in the morning.
When you get back, it will be at the best temperature to drink and start your day.
