Thread: One dream you still hope to achieve someday

Yanix - October 12, 2026, 7:00 am

I guess no matter how old we get, there's always something we still dream of achieving in life.

For me, one of my biggest dreams is to buy a big piece of land where I can build houses for my whole family. We'd all have our own separate homes, but we'd be neighbors and live close to each other. I'd also love to have a swimming pool, a playground for the kids, and other amenities that everyone in the family could enjoy.

Just imagine having the whole family nearby, being able to visit each other anytime, and watching our kids grow up together. That's the kind of life I'd love to have someday.

I know it's going to take a lot of hard work and money to make it happen, but hopefully I'll be able to turn that dream into reality one day.?

How about you guys?

My dream is to own a big house where I can have my own office space and my wife can have an entire room for her clothes and whatever she needs.

That's a wonderful dream, brother! Having your own office space and a room just for your wife's things sounds like a perfect setup. I really hope you get to turn that dream into reality someday.?

Owning my own house

It still seems in reach and possible but as time goes on and with interest rates it is not getting easier unless I make some big changes in the next few years

I feel the same bro! Owning a house is a big dream, and with how expensive things are getting, it's definitely not easy. As long as it's still within reach, there's always hope.

Just keep working toward it and hopefully you'll make it happen sooner than you think!

To become a millionaire so I don't have to worry about money ever in my life.

That's a dream worth chasing. Hopefully, you'll reach that goal someday and enjoy life without constantly worrying about money.

Sometimes living a simple life is much more satisfying than spending money on things we don't really need. As long as you're happy and comfortable, that's what matters most!

That's a great dream. Having everyone close by but still having your own space sounds like a pretty good life. Hope you get to make it happen someday.

Thanks a lot brother. That's exactly what I'm hoping for someday. Having my loved ones nearby while everyone still enjoys their own privacy and space would be amazing. Hopefully, with enough hard work and patience, I can make that dream a reality! ?

For sure brother, just keep working towards it. Hopefully one day you'll look back and realize all the hard work was worth it.

Such a wonderful goal! We may not be able to change the whole world, but we can definitely make it a better place for the people around us.

I hope to become a manager at work someday. I also hope to become wealthier and for my children to always be happy and doing well.

Becoming a millionaire would be nice. But then again, I'm sure once I have a million, I'll want a billion lol

Lol that's how it usually goes, brother ? Once we reach one goal, we start dreaming of something bigger. I guess we're never really satisfied!
