Thread: Do you prefer home-cooked meals or eating out?

I don't know about you guys, but there are days when I'd rather just eat at home and other days when I feel like going out and trying something different.

Personally, I enjoy both. I love having a home-cooked meal with my family, but I also enjoy taking my wife and kids out to eat whenever we get the chance.

It doesn't have to be somewhere fancy. Even a cheap restaurant is fine with me as long as everyone enjoys the food and we get to spend some quality time together.

Fair enough! ? Fast food is definitely convenient, especially when you don't enjoy cooking.

I prefer eating out since it just tastes so much better.

Are you living on your own bro or with your family? I admit eating out is definitely enjoyable, especially when the food tastes amazing. But nothing beats a good home-cooked meal every now and then!

It's not like my homemade meals are bad, just prefer eating out since they definitely do something to hook you.

Oh yeah, restaurants definitely have their own tricks to make their food taste so good that you keep coming back for more.?

Depends on who's cooking.

I'm going 90% of the time I'm choosing eating out, and if someone I know is cooking and it's something I like I'll choose home cooked.

Yeah, I guess it really depends on who's cooking and what's on the menu. A delicious home-cooked meal can sometimes beat eating out, especially when it's made by someone who knows your favorites!
