Thread: Ilhan Omar house raided

Charlie Sheen - October 12, 2026, 7:43 pm

Ilhan Omars house was raided this morning around 6 am by the Department of Homeland Security. According to some sources they say "the probe centers partly on historical immigration paperwork and fraud allegations concerning Omar's entry into the United States as a child".

Interesting but I don't see how a raid is necessary. This move seems politically driven.

Doesn't it seem like it? The political smell is so strong that I can practically smell it from all the way over here... This whole thing has become ridiculously comical. ?

This is 100% politically driven, it is simply because she has repeatedly spoken out against Trump and has voted against Trump and the fact that she is a Muslim.

With that being said since this politically driven investigation is happening, if some of the accusations turn out to be true such as lying about her age and it was intentional on immigration paperwork and if the accusation of her marrying her brother for immigration purposes turns out to be true then it cannot go unpunished because any regular person who is not in congress would be punished for it.

Wow, such Democracy xD

Rumor is she fled the USA, although unconfirmed.

If that rumor turns out to be true that doesn't scream innocent to me.

But did she really? Or did they make her vanish, fueling these rumors to manipulate public opinion? I mean, we can never be sure.

That's brain washing by the mainstream... Of course you watch USA tele they're going to say their the best. Yeck~ turn on your country medias news probably says [ENTER your country here] is the best at by doing .. [enter witty remarks here]... Which nation doesn't pump themselves up?

c'mon .. Who says USA is supposed to be the best? Trump? your favorite news anchor? Where did you come to this conclusion? yourself? Every country has there flaws.
