Thread: Man Dies After Falling Off Roller Coaster

The exact reason why I hate roller coasters, they scare the hell out of me. Especially after seeing several videos of incidents similar. I don't want them banned but there's so much that can go wrong that I feel like more precautions need to be made.

You always hear stories about this... I love rollercoasters but I'm not a fan of the temporary ones that get put up for an event. IMO they're less secure

This happens way too often... I honestly don't know why any sane person would enjoy these stupid, deadly games in the first place.

I think they blindly trust that it must be safe if it's still running and don't take into consideration wear or tear the seats go through.

But I have seen some videos of other incidents and they are horrific. My wife used to love rollercoasters until she saw some of those videos.

As a kid I would always ride rollercoasters. Now I wouldn't touch them with a pole.

I remember playing it only once when I was a kid because someone challenged me to try it... Ever since then, I've been convinced that it's a ridiculously stupid game. ?
