Could be anything. People who stop in the middle of a doorway, loud phone speakers in public, or someone watching a video without headphones.

When people chew with their mouths open. I will never forget the experience I had almost a decade ago where I was sharing an office room with a coworker, and he simply gave zero fucks in regard to manners by loudly chewing every bite of his lunch with his mouth wide open. You could hear everything, the entire goddamned first step in digesting something, and it took every ounce of my will power to not punch him in the mouth. How in the hell he was in a happy marriage is beyond me.

No. Cows are delicious and cute. This hellspawn needs to be exorcized back to circle of hell he escaped from.

Yes... loud speakers from cars I guess? So annoying

People who walk slow in public or just stop randomly in middle of the pavement.

People who think their car is lowered more than it is, and they drive weirdly to speed bumps. You know what I mean.

I just hate those people, YOUR CAR IS NOT THAT LOW. Last time I got annoyed and pissed off about this was about 3h ago xD
