

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Is 2026 one of the best years for horror movies?

Pimping - October 15, 2026, 12:47 am

This year has been the best year for horror movies since forever... in my opinion. like there has been so many unique types of horror this past year.. let me know what ones you guys have watched this year and thoughts

Here's what i watched -

Scream 7
Scary Movie (not exactly horror but parodies)
Obsession
The Icecream Man
Buddy
Resident Evil

Movies/series i am gonna watch this month -

Backrooms
Crystal Lake
Carrie
Other Mommy

Lefty - October 15, 2026, 3:55 am

It is a good time for horror/thrillers for sure. I basically watch anything a24 brings out.

Pimping - October 15, 2026, 7:40 pm

(Oct 15, 2026 03:55 AM)Lefty Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It is a good time for horror/thrillers for sure. I basically watch anything a24 brings out.

A24 movies are always good excited to watch backrooms will be doing that this weekend

Lefty - October 15, 2026, 7:57 pm

(Oct 15, 2026 07:40 PM)Pimping Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A24 movies are always good excited to watch backrooms will be doing that this weekend
Oh bro you are going to love it !

Th3HulK - October 17, 2026, 9:42 am

I think you might be looking at it through rose-tinted glasses, but I get the hype. 2026 has definitely had a lot of variety. You listed Resident Evil though, did you actually like that one? I felt like it was a bit of a mess, even for a video game adaptation. Scream 7 was solid, but it felt a bit safe compared to the last two.

For my list this year, Weapons was easily the best one I saw, the whole mystery and the way it flipped between timelines was insane. Sinners was also a great time.

Jinu - October 17, 2026, 10:35 am

The variety is the part I'd agree with most. A lot of your list is sequels and reboots, though, so I'm curious whether the original stuff or the franchise entries are doing the heavy lifting for you. Of the ones you're about to start, Crystal Lake feels like the one most likely to split people.

Pimping - October 17, 2026, 4:25 pm

(Oct 17, 2026 09:42 AM)Th3HulK Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I think you might be looking at it through rose-tinted glasses, but I get the hype. 2026 has definitely had a lot of variety. You listed Resident Evil though, did you actually like that one? I felt like it was a bit of a mess, even for a video game adaptation. Scream 7 was solid, but it felt a bit safe compared to the last two.

For my list this year, Weapons was easily the best one I saw, the whole mystery and the way it flipped between timelines was insane. Sinners was also a great time.

I was really disappointed with the ending in Resident Evil honestly

Scream 7 was ok... definitely prefer Scream 6. I just feel like there's been so many horror movies/series this year. I never noticed this many in a really long time lol

Yin Yang - October 19, 2026, 10:21 am

It's been pretty solid. Other mommy was meh, knew what I was getting into

Pimping - October 19, 2026, 1:47 pm

(20 hours ago)Yin Yang Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's been pretty solid. Other mommy was meh, knew what I was getting into

Will be watching that one tonight