I have not decided on my Halloween plans yet.
A haunted trail is definitely one possibility.

I usually like but these moments are often wasted by the same people, I don't know how to say in English, the same that cause troubles in theaters, screaming and so on. Same reason why I don't go anymore to theater

I would like to but i doubt there is any in my area

Unfortunately, that's not available around here... Maybe at the amusement park, where the horror level is designed for babies and toddlers.
