Worst thing I've done was to get into a relation ship with my ex girlfriend. Lost all my saving (+35k), went through a burnout, so i've lost my job, then depression. It was 3 years ago, still struggling to get back on my feet.

I had a very good position in cybersecurity, besides I've lost my job at the worst moment for people in IT. I remember 3 years ago getting at least 1 message per week on Linkedin from recruiters, now they don't even look at me.

Not done : mmmmh, investing cryptos earlier I guess, as many people. Invested in 2021 during ATH, lost many grants, don't want to sell, I'll either retrieve my investment, or loose everything.

I also remember when recruiters would contact weekly on LinkedIn. Now I get one every 2-3 months.

Learning the value of not spending money like monopoly money sooner.

I regret spending too little time with people who truly cared about me.

I gave my attention to those who did not appreciate it.

I don't know, I guess turning down that threesome offer when I was in high school sometimes comes back to haunt me. It took me a little bit to think of something.
