Great deal, thanks for the share. I've heard a lot of good things, and at the same time I've heard a lot of bad things about this game. Not sure if it's worth playing, did you play ? What's your opinion ?

I just played like 30 minutes of it last night and so far it seems like a great story! Seems fun so far!

This is from AI after researching... I picked Gryffindor because of the picture of a lion and it looks fierce ? Note I don't have any experience or watched any Harry Potter sequels but the games sick so far ?

Quote:The other three houses you can choose in Hogwarts Legacy are Gryffindor, Hufflepuff, and Ravenclaw.

? Gryffindor

- Core Trait: Daring / Bravery.
- Aesthetics: Warm red and gold colors. The common room is located in Gryffindor Tower and is accessed through the portrait of the Fat Lady.
- Exclusive Quest: "The Hunt for the Missing Pages". You team up with Nearly Headless Nick, visit the Hogwarts kitchens, and attend a Headless Hunt

? Hufflepuff

- Core Trait: Loyalty / Patience.
- Aesthetics: Yellow and black nature-themed cozy designs. The common room is located near the kitchens, accessed by tapping a specific melody on a barrel.
- Exclusive Quest: "Prisoner of Love". Widely considered the best house quest, it allows you to solve a decades-old murder mystery and briefly visit Azkaban Prison, where you encounter Dementors.

? Ravenclaw

- Core Trait: Curiosity / Intelligence.
 - Aesthetics: Blue and bronze astronomical and airy designs. Located in Ravenclaw Tower, you must solve a riddle to enter. It also features an exclusive rooftop landing pad for your broom.
 - Exclusive Quest: "Ollivander's Heirloom". You assist Gerbold Ollivander in tracking down a stolen heirloom wand by solving a puzzle inside the Hogwarts Owlery.
- Regardless of the house you select, the overall story, spell upgrades, and ability to befriend companions from other houses remain entirely the same
