I want to hide the name of subdomain because is vulnerable.. and for security.

he blocked a ton of shit out that was unnecessary.

i Slap Kidz - May 2, 2009, 3:35 pm

lol, i dont even think nasa edits there webpages like that. Thats like freewebs shit and im pretty sure they do it trough FTP.

FAILURE.

Vaqxine - May 2, 2009, 3:38 pm

Actually, I'm quite convinced by this. Romanians continue to impress me, and just because it's Nasa, doesn't mean they're invulnerable.

markbig21 - May 2, 2009, 3:43 pm

hahha first off dude george is in there twice, is one give away and u didnt use capital letters in some places that you should have man come on..if your going to fake something, make that shit look good hmmmmm dont know if I should trust this is real or not..

Phage - May 2, 2009, 4:09 pm

guys... if your not convinced by the blurring, maybe you should consider why the hell NASA would use a stupid cpanel-type web editor as if they were a webhost?

And the guy isn't even smart enough to just replace the url to make it look remotely real... =P

Vaqxine - May 2, 2009, 4:32 pm

Jeez.

This probably IS real, because he's clearly blacked out the subdomain.

Why? Because it's probably got the name of his shell in, or something, and if you knew that then he'd be exposing the vulnerability to you. He's also just dumped a few MD5 hashes from another .gov website in this section, so I don't see why this is so hard to believe. Honestly.

This is Nasa, okay, they work with spacecrafts, it's not some huge IT security group.

People have hacked into the department of defense and the pentagon.

Honestly, this is probably no different than hacking any other semi-popular site.

SHORT

Allen-X - May 4, 2009, 2:43 am
NASA doesn't run under any Administrative Host, they run under an RDP box and that is how they control there server.
And you couldn't do any of these things:

E SSI - NASA doesn't use server side includes. DUH
LFI / RFI - Probably smart enough to require("page.php")
XSS - NASA is probably smart enough to encode scripting and java in search boxes.
RDP bruteforce - NASA is probably smart enough to view the event viewer and also make there RDPP be connected to a foreign host and not on there PDM.

I can go on.

HardOwned - May 4, 2009, 2:45 am
Obviously, its fake.

But the Nasa has been hacked loads of times before, check Defacement Archives.

Allen-X - May 4, 2009, 2:57 am
This guy is using a simple header() redirection to a DIFFERENT server. (That explains the screenies) and he stopped the HTTP requests on NASA and started them on a DIFFERENT server.

So basically, hes not even on NASA's site.

so basically:

<?php
include("physical.php")
require("rape.php")
print "who Raped ya";
echo "Me";
echo "MAHAAHAAHHAHHAHA";

$local_file = 'hardrape.zip';
$server_file = 'smallrape.rar';

$conn_id = ftp_connect($ftp_server);

$login_result = ftp_login($conn_id, $rape, $rape);

if (ftp_get($conn_id, $local_file, $server_file, FTP_BINARY)) {
    echo "Your dick is successfully fwriten'd to $local_file\n"; } else {
    echo "There was a fuckmunched problem\n";
}

ftp_close($conn_id);

?>

Viral Dragon - May 4, 2009, 5:19 pm

This thread is friggin lame. It's stupid.

And to be honest the responses to this stupid thread are so stupid and ridiculous it makes me wanna punch the lights out of half the people in this thread.

Here's what I see.

1) People trying to explain what happened. (Granted I do this too)
It's still stupid. We already know happened. We don't need to hear another fucking explanation for the millionth effing time.

2) People calling people n00bs. To be honest, I dislike the word n00b. I really do. Want to know why, because when you say "hey you n00b" or "your a n00b" we can either A) Assume you say this because you believe yourself to be superior in the world of hacking. In which case I want to show you something which will mentally fuck you and you will never think that way again. Or B) Because you may know 1 or 2 things more than some one else, or have a better understanding in area, doesn't mean s/he is a fucking n00b. It just means they didn't know the fucking answer.

3) I see "this is fake cause it's the government." this is so stupid i almost spit out my drink when i read this. So you think because it's NASA and they can't be hacked? Or because it's the government, they can't be hacked? ...Wow well.. to be honest you won't get far in the world of hacking with such narrow minded-ness.

4) Timrod...or...whatever the hell you name was again (I'm referring to the topic starter); To be honest. I think your full of shit. Yes I was blunt. I'm not going to ask for solid proof. Not going to demand it. Even if you do do whatever and then post a video of it, or tell us step by step. I'd still sit there and tell you "your full of shit". I have my own reasons for saying this. Sorry but..I'm just an ass like that.

5) I honestly think this thread is full of fucking fail/lame/shit. The post are stupid, at least 50% or more is people calling people n00bs and what not. And the other 80% saying "this shit is fake gtfo n00b". or the 30% which say "he did this and this". or the 10% which was him saying "i didn't fake it .your a n00b cause i can fake shit better than you"...

Seriously. I know you mods don't really give a shit because this thread hasn't broken the rules. But...It's my strong opinion this thread be closed, or people just stop posting in it. It's the same damn routine over and over and over and over with this thread and about 68% of the other threads here.

No No...Evidently it wasn't lame enough if you didn't understand it.

It wasn't meant solely to say hey "you guys are lame for posting the same shit over and over and over again. ". No no...read my novel again; which on the downside wasn't long enough if you ask me, I'm sure if I tried I could have stretched it to about 200 pages if i really wanted too.

Now read it. Don't skim it. Actually read it. Don't think just what you see. Look. Actually look at it.

Allen-X - May 5, 2009, 1:12 am

I never said it was fake.

NASA controls there session through an RDP interface, not through an Admin Login entry.

Years ago there was a Google Dork which still exists, you can look through secret gov documents.

Well, this was exposed via documents. They learned their lesson, and found a new interface. They control and store all there information on an RD protocol. It points to a totally different server (Not GOV) and it prevents tons of ejections. And if there is an attempt made, Event Viewer ftw.

And I know my shit.

and I know you did not spoof the mime type because as I mentioned before, they control everything via RDP, therefore, not giving you the ability to spoof the mime-type extension, and thus not giving you the ability to execute anything.

I can go on for days.

OK, SQL injection is an easy patch, using things you've heard on the internet doesn't correct your mistakes. Fixing SQLi can be as simple as modifying and using addslashes() or mysql_escape_string.

And I said there was a dork FOR IT you idiot.

And just as I said you mentally orbited dumbass, the gov uses a RD session, you don't use .htaccess on a RD session you fuck-munch, you use .htaccess most commonly on web severs (common on Apache, etc).

And VNC stores databases featuring records, connecting to a network on VNC basically gives someone your IP, ever heard of netstat... IDIOT.

Subject: [ISN] Swedish Hacker Indicted in Cisco, NASA Attacks

By SIOBHAN GORMAN and YOCHI J. DREAZEN
The Wall Street Journal
May 6, 2009

WASHINGTON -- A Swedish computer hacker was indicted Tuesday for breaking into the networks of tech-gear maker Cisco Systems Inc. and high-end computing equipment at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The attacks underscore the development of a vast underground economy that targets both the private sector and the government.

Hacking under the nom de guerre "Stakkato," Philip Gabriel Pettersson was a teenager when he penetrated the systems five years ago. He is now 21 years old and faces charges in a five-count indictment of illegally damaging computer networks and theft of trade secrets.

Mr. Pettersson broke into Cisco's networks around May 12, 2004, to steal trade secrets, according to the indictment. The data stolen were part of the playbook for its router systems, known as "source code" for the company's Internetwork Operating System. The operating system is a cornerstone technology for the San Jose, Calif.-based company that is a common thread through many of its products. Cisco "used reasonable measures" to protect its code, the indictment says.

And how are 70% of hackforums nabzors as you so blatantly put it.
