This tutorial is for people who don't know how.

I was bored, and wanted to do something productive so I decided to show how to do this. Please no flaming.

It shows how to use a webclient to download a string of data.

At the end, I know I forgot to type "Web.Dispose" I realized that afterwards.

Anyways, here's the tutorial :

It would probably be better to use HTTPWebRequests & a background worker so your program doesn't delay or so.

Yeah :)

I've been coding ni C# for about 6 months now ;)

I freaking love it.
