Thread: [Performance over Appearance \[TuT\]](#)

If you're computer going reasonably slow? Well with this small tutorial it could speed it up a considerable amount. Bare in mind, only follow this tutorial if you're not bothered about what your computer looks like (eg. windows classic). However, it can be undo with a click of a button, so no need to worry.

First you're going to want to press start, and type in the following:

Code Adjust the performance

Then you'll want to click on 'Adjust the appearance and performance of Windows'

You'll then be given this menu, where you will choose the setup you prefer. Or you could choose the recommended one.

Good luck.

And who doesn't know how to do this?

Obviously if you're on HF you have to have SOME knowledge, and this is just one of those things that an 85 year old man that's never touched a computer before could find.

A tutorial is a tutorial at the end of the day. Thanks for your appreciation. >.>

Not everyone on hf has knowledge cuz I've seen some pretty idiotic questions on here. Some people might overlook easy small tweaks such as this.
