He claims that this program tests computer's performance, but it adds itself to startup, modify processes. Therefore, it doesn't match description and it's malicious.

Question: Why would anyone trust him from his reputation alone?

?ystem - November 6, 2010, 7:17 pm

I honestly would not be surprised if CodyPkz were infecting users at this point, sadly.

If this is legitimate and he very well is than I personally thank you ahead of time for noticing this when no one else had.

There has been a large activity spike of users ranging from trusted to non-trusted either successfully or attempting to infect users of HF for which ever reason. It's very saddening..

I don't see how any one could fall for this kind of stuff, if it doesn't run on Sandboxie, it's infected simply.

Virtual Reality - November 6, 2010, 7:43 pm

It seems to be taken care of now. Thanks for reporting, but you could of just reported the post as "Infected Download Link" and the same thing would of happened.
