

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Help with "actual" DL speed of network/computer

Mask - December 5, 2010, 3:07 pm

Alright so I was wondering a bit about Download and upload speed.

When I download I usually NEVER see over 300kpbs, though I have recently used some tools found here to up my speed and whatnot.

Okay so I went and tried downloading from mega upload a trailer for testing the actual speed....

I only got MAX 300kbs and avg about 150-200...

What the hell is up?

Also note I am on wireless+another user is on but not downloading anything...

If it says my download speed is ATLEAST 2MB/s why aren't I downloading it at this rate?

BlazinBlunts - December 5, 2010, 3:11 pm

What are you on? Cable, DSL etc..?

Mask - December 5, 2010, 3:24 pm

I am on DSL at the moment, and running of a Linksys Router and Wireless card.

BlazinBlunts - December 5, 2010, 3:26 pm

Yea DSL very bad for downloading. I use cable and only get 800 kb/s - 1 mb

Mask - December 5, 2010, 4:51 pm

But on speed test it says I get 2mb/s atleast for DL speed, what gives?

-mothered- - December 6, 2010, 3:20 am

The speed at which you download, does depend on where you're downloading from.

Now try resetting your Modem/Router, even to factory settings If need be.

This can make a difference at times.

Mask - December 6, 2010, 12:06 pm

Alright, thanks mothered, I'll give that a try.

-mothered- - December 6, 2010, 2:47 pm

(Dec 6, 2010 01:06 PM)Mask Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Alright, thanks mothered, I'll give that a try.
No prob's mate.

Please advise of the outcome. Also, It may be worth your while to give your ISP a call, to make sure that everything is okay on their end.