lankan12,

I'm interested in a couple of hmail accounts but I'm not sure if your process changes current password or it just provides the current one.

Please clarify if your process involve changing password the hotmail account...

Do you reset the password? Is there any chance that the account can be recovered?

lankan12 - December 14, 2010, 10:25 am

I reset the password thanks..Well thats not up to me because that depends on how the owner is good at reverting .. :P otherwise you could gather information from the emails for reverting yourself if it gets hacked back :P

Can you hack this account?

tjhoohoo@hotmail.com

But I don't want the owner to know someone got the password, very important. Does the password get changed or does everything still look normal to the owner of the account?
