Does it matter if I bind a file (and the content of that file) when encrypting? Regarding stability and detection

123 ich bin ein ei - January 2, 2011, 11:59 pm

Thank you, worked for me. Now I just have to test the stability.

tested that usecase too. after binding my server to a executable file it wont run anymore. but you should give it a try anyway and post your result.

i updated the instruction image for crypting:

EOF did not corrupt my servers. but i didnt test the extras, sorry.

@siklas

what happens if you just ignore that error? i had it too and but i was able to crypt my servers anyway. fixed it with reinstalling the .net framework (.net framework 2 > 3 > 3.5 > 4) though.

ninja137 - January 3, 2011, 1:21 pm

Ok so you say me that the server is crypted but my computer cant open it. I bough tmy computer 2-3 years ago and its good. And how im sure that most of other slaves i try to infect wont have this problem
