Humans in Fire Effect

Start by creating yourself a new image, I used the dimensions 400px in width and 100px in height as it is able to be used on many sites as a signature.

Then add in your flame stock/render as a new layer, you can do this by going to your "file" tab and selecting "open as layers".

Then add in your stock/render image of anything that you want to use, This tutorial uses Eminem but you are not restricted, you can use whatever image you wish to.

With your second image that you have added (Not the flame) selected then go over to the layer box

You can use several different layer types Some of these look better than other

There are three main ones that I like, these are bellow -

I also inverted the colours to see as to what it would look like, I like the outcome of this one.
